The American Society of International Law

The American Society of International Law was organized in 1906 "to foster the study of international law and to promote the establishment and maintenance of international relations on the basis of law and justice."

The Society serves as a meeting place and forum for scholars, teachers, officials, lawyers, and others, from some one hundred countries. In April, it holds a three-day Annual Meeting in Washington at which current problems of international law are discussed. The Society also sponsors regional meetings outside of Washington in co-operation with other institutions. Salient questions of international law and relations are considered in depth by panels and study groups organized by the Society's Board of Review and Development. Works of scholarship are often published under the Society's auspices in connection with studies sponsored by the Board.

The Society periodically issues three publications:

The American Journal of International Law, the leading journal in the field of international law, has been published since 1907. A special issue of the Journal carries the papers and discussions of the annual meeting of the Society. The Journal is distributed to all members of the Society without additional charge, and is available to non-members at a subscription rate of $30 a year.

International Legal Materials, a bimonthly, is a unique international collection of texts of current official documents, including legislation, treaties, court decisions, and reports. Subscription rates are $15 a year for members of the Society, $35 for others.*

The monthly Newsletter provides members with news of the Society and other organizations in the field.

Society membership is open to all persons of whatever nationality and profession who are interested in its objectives. Dues are: regular, $25 for residents of the United States, $10 for non-residents;* professional, $40; intermediate, $15; student, $7.50. Application for membership may be made on the form printed at the back of this issue of the JOURNAL.

Preface

The Annual Meeting is the centerpiece in the program of the American Society of International Law. And, as is perfectly evident from what follows in this volume, the Chairman of the 1973 meeting, Professor Tom S. Farer of the Rutgers Law School, took the institution to new heights this year. The dozen-odd panel programs, the working breakfasts and lunches, the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition, and the remarks at the Annual Dinner—are a remarkable review of the contemporary issues and personalities on the international law scene. These 1973 Proceedings are a testimony to his keen judgment in the selection of chairmen, speakers, and commentators. To them, and to him, as well as to the reporters and staff members of the Society, we owe our gratitude.

Particular thanks are also due to Anne Simons, and to all those who have given her a hand in editing this vast body of material into a usable and useful record.
